UNIT: Immigrants in the Workforce
Grades 7 - 12

Objective
Students will understand how immigration helped to build the industrial workforce and begin to appreciate the continuing importance of immigrants to the building of modern America. Through the exploration of primary sources about the immigration inspection process and the industrial workforce, students will draw connections between the screening process at Ellis Island and the development of the modern workforce. Extension activities will allow them to explore the place of present-day immigrants in today’s workforce.
